

ACP PROGRAM OF CLINICAL AND THEORETICAL STUDIES

Introductory Course in Psychoanalysis

The introductory program runs for two semesters. Students will be introduced to concepts that lie at the heart of psychoanalysis. The course is both theoretical and practical, with an emphasis on the famous case studies that Freud used to introduce his discovery of the unconscious. It also explores the conceptual frameworks that different schools of psychoanalysis have used to construct models of intervention.

Psychoanalysis is both a body of theory and a clinical praxis. It also has a powerful research function. All these will be touched upon in the course over the duration of the year. In one and a half hour, weekly seminars, the teaching will cover the basic ideas of psychoanalytic practice, and the way they are implemented in the clinic.

As the source from which all psychotherapies derive, psychoanalysis aims most potently to produce truthful knowledge, and this will be a theme of the course, which is suitable for both those who intend to practice clinically, and others with a more general interest. Over the many years the course has been running, this seminar format has proved an accessible way to introduce psychoanalysis.

The course consists of 24 seminars over two semesters.

Date: Thursday evenings Time: 7.30pm- 9pm

Semester 1: February 23rd to May 18th

Semester 2: August 3rd to October 5th

Four Year Program of Studies

The four-year course aims at engaging participants in a systematic study of the key concepts of Freudian and Lacanian psychoanalysis. Particular emphasis is given to psychoanalytic ethics and practice. The program provides a firm theoretical foundation for those wishing to undertake training as a psychoanalyst with the ACP.

Three years of the course will run in 2017. The ACP will offer a new intake of the program, whilst continuing to run the second and third year of its current program.

The course runs over two semesters, each of fourteen weeks duration.

Date: Saturday mornings Time: 8.45am - 11.45am

Semester 1: commences on February 25th

Semester 2: commences on July 29th

Venue: Treacy Conference Centre Parkville

The first year of the program aims to introduce participants to the foundational concepts of Freud's work, the unconscious and the drive, their elaboration by Jacques Lacan and application in clinical practice.

The second year focuses on the study of the fundamental psychoanalytic concepts of repetition and transference, alongside a rigorous study of Freud and Lacan's theories of psychopathology and clinical structures.

During the third year, students continue the study of psychopathology begun in the previous year and embark on a study of fundamental ethical questions linked to the clinical practice of psychoanalysis. This includes the concept of the analyst's desire and the contributions Freud and Lacan have made to the field of ethics.

INSTITUTE FOR TRAINING

The Australian Centre for Psychoanalysis is dedicated to the practice, study and teaching of psychoanalysis, in the field established by Sigmund Freud and extended by Jacques Lacan. The Institute for Training governs the programs of clinical and theoretical study offered by the ACP, as well as providing oversight to the training of psychoanalysts through the functions of its Training Committee.

TRAINING AS A PSYCHOANALYST WITH THE ACP

Training in psychoanalysis comprises; personal analysis, supervision of clinical cases, and a rigorous course of study in the theory and clinical practice of psychoanalysis.

Across the course of their studies, students may aspire to apply for candidature to the psychoanalytic training program by becoming an Analyst-in-Training with the ACP.

THEME: PSYCHOANALYSIS, THE REAL AND REALITY

Sub-themes:

The real and language

The real and the clinical structures

The real and desire

The real and trauma

The real and the affects

Reality and fantasy

"The real at issue in what is called my thought, is always an odd or an end, a core. It is certainly a core around which thought embellishes, but the mark as such of this real is that it doesn't tie on to anything."
Jacques Lacan, Seminar XXIII, The Sinthome.
